Insanity of English People.

Prof. J. Holt Schooling, fellow of the Royal Statistical society of Great Britain, has just completed a very interesting investigation by which he has been enabled to show some curious facts relative to the insanity of the British people. He tells us how many persons go mad and why they do so. He declares that one person in every 396 of the population of Britain is a dealers.

The result of Prof. Schooling's mathe-The result of Prof. Schooling's mathematical calculation, boiled down into succinct facts, shows that in every 10,000 of the English and Welsh population, 31.4 people are lunatics. In every 10,000 of the Scotch population, 33.6 people are lunatics. In every 10,000 of the Irish population 40.3 people are lunation.

Entering into the causes as to why men go mad, Prof. Schooling strikes a mighty blow for the cause of temper-ance when he makes the statement, soley inspired by his investigations and the accurate results thereof, that drink, liquor, sends mad nearly one-third of all the persons who become insane in Great Britain from the eight leading Great Britain from the eight leading causes of insanity in that territory.

He places these eight principal causes of insanity and the percentage of each as regards every 100 lunatics as follows: Drink, 33.6; domestic troubles, 15.1; mental anxiety, 13.4; old age, 13.2; adverse circumstances, 13; accidents, 6.5; religious excitement, 4; love affairs, 3.2.

She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. #### The Opening of Africa.

Up to 1884, says Professor Adams in the April Atlantic, scarcely more than the edges of Africa had been occupied by the European powers. It was in that year that Germany suddenly began an attempt to realize her long cher-ished aspirations for a colonial empire. She naturally made the attempt in She naturally made the attempt in Africa, as the only place where it was possible to make it, and in doing so she started all the nations in a wild race in fear lest their neighbors should get the advantage of them. In this scramble, if England has been left far behind by some of the others in the area of her gains, she certainly leads them all in their real value, and the prospect that the Anglo-Saxons will be the leading power in the future of Africa is certainly as good, if not better than was their prospect for the control of North America in 1750. This is surely true if we consider Egypt an English possession, and we can hardly suppose that England will ever abandon that country, whatever depths of sentimental emotion may be stirred in varying engiand will ever abandon that country, whatever depths of sentimental emotion may be stirred in varying moods; nor, considering the enormous benefits which result, would the world ever consent to such an abandonment, if it were not still much influenced by barbarian motives. It was a brilliant barbarian motives. It was a brilliant scheme which was attempted in 1894, to obtain from the Congo Free state a narrow strip of land connecting the waterway of Lake Tanganyika with the waterway of Lake Tanganyika with the British sphere of influence to the North, and so to make an English highway from the mouth of the Nile to the Cape of Good Hope. Although it seemed the part of wisdom at the time to yield to the united objections of the other interested powers, it is by no means impossible that the object sought may be accomplished in the end.

A Demoralizing Influence Hits Missoula a Frightful Blow.

BLACK EYES, SORE HEADS

The Closing Week of Lent Has a Disastrous Effect Upon Missoula's Reputation in One Way and Another.

Missoula, April 16.-The closing week of Lent has had a most disastrous effect upon Missoula's population, Whether it is that abstinence for so long a period has been more than the average Missoula man can stand or whether it is the direct result of the warm weather does not at this writing appear, but the record for the week shows that some subtle influence has been at work and that its operations have been most successful. The record was started early in the week, when two well-known men about town, who have figured for some time on the night shift, came to blows in an all-night restaurant over the society of a soiled dove. The contest was so hot that one of the young men bears scars that were inflicted by the blade of a penknife and the other has a lump on top of his head that came from a blow with a billy. The billy blow broke up the fight but the restaurant man spent several hours cleaning up his place, which was liberally decorated with ketchup, Worcestershire sauce and sugar, the com-batants having used the sugar bowls and relish bottles as weapons. It was not until the supply of ammunition of this sort gave out that the knife and the billy were drawn. Then the fight was hot and heavy for a minute or so. was not and neavy for a minute of so. After that it was all over and the restaurant man was left to himself amidst the ruins of what was to have been a happy breakfast. The girl went away with a third man and all that the two fighters had to show was their scars. They haven't been very anxious to show these. show these

Even staid Billy Shaw has fallen a victim to the influence of the spring-time activity. He spent half an hour the other night trying to climb over the 10-foot fence that surrounds the back yard of the Florence hotel. For some reason he had a strong objection to going out of the front door of the Board of Trade, and when his efforts to scale the fence were finally abandoned he had most of the whitewash from the fence on his black coat. And, to make the matter worse, he was compelled to go out the front door.

Good Friday has brought no improvement. Mike Cosgrove has one eye in a sling to-day as the result of an assault committed early this morning while he was on his way home. In front of the Eddy block he was accosted by two men whom he did not know, who asked him to go with them and take a drink. He replied that he did not drink and was on his way home, so he would de-He replied that he did not drink and was on his way home, so he would decline with thanks. This forenoon there were two or three scraps on the side, but none of them did much harm. They simply served to make the finish of the Lenten season an especially brilliant and speedy one and if the next 24 hours are as interand if the next 24 hours are as it esting as the past day has been, there will be plenty of fun up to Easter.

FREE TO EVERY MAN The Method of a Great Treatment for Weakness of Men.

Which Cured Him After Everything Else Failed.

Painful diseases are bad enough, but when a man is slowly wasting away with nervous weakness, the mental forebodings are ten times worse than the most severe pain. There is no let up to the mental suffering day or night. Sleep is almost impossible and under auch a strain men are scarcely responsible for what they do. For years the writer rolled and tossed on the troubled sea of sexual weakness until it was a question whether he had not better take a dose of poison and thus end all his troubles. Providential inspiration came to his aid in the shape of a combination of medicines that not only restored the general health, but enlarged his weak, emaciated parts to natural size and vigor, and he now declares that any man who will take the trouble to send his name and address may have the method of this wonderful treatment free. Now when I say free I mean absolutely without cost, because I want every weakned man to get the benefit of my experience.

I want every weakened man to get the benefit of my experience.

I am not a philanthropist, nor do I pose as an enthusiast, but there are thousands of men suffering the mental tortures of weakened manhood who would be cured at once could they but get such a remedy as the one that cured me. Do not try to study out how I can afford to pay the few postage stamps necessary to mail the information, but send for it, and learn that there are a few things on earth that although they cost nothing to get they are woth a fortune to some men and mean a lifetime of happiness to most of us. Write to Thomas Slater, loss 173, Kalamazoo, Mich., and the information will be mailed in a plain scaled envelop.
